Art and Science Fair Winners at Guernsey

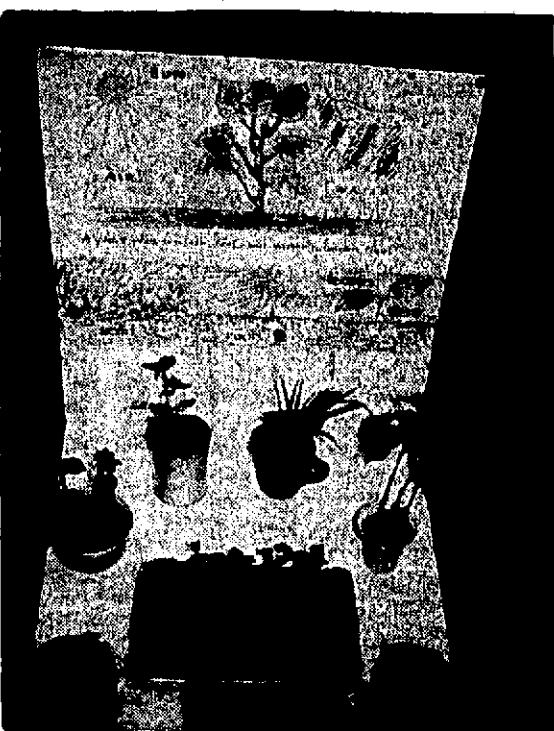

— Elsie Huckabee Photos

On March 19 Guernsey was host to the Art Fair and Science Fair, two divisions of the Hempstead County Literary Meet. More than 200 persons attended during the hours from 7 to 8:30. Approximately 165 science exhibits and 150 art exhibits were on display. The schools participating in these events were: Patmos, Washington, Saratoga, Blevins, Spring Hill, and the host school, Guernsey.

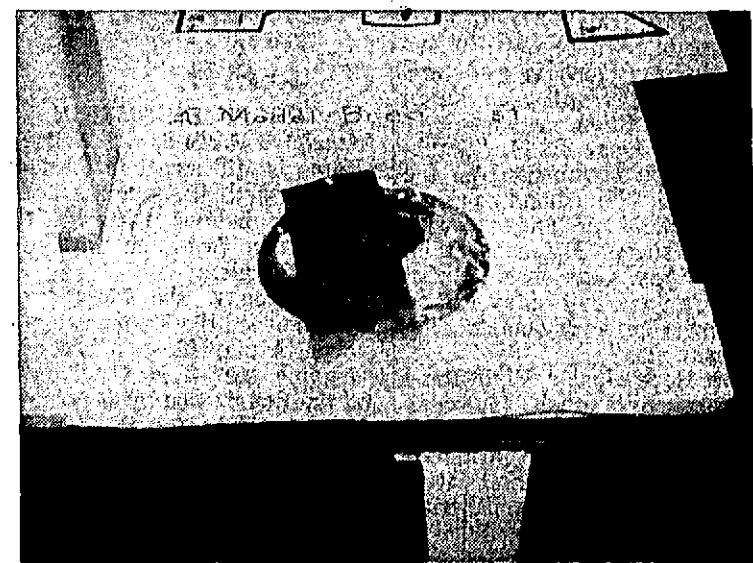

Competent judging, preparation by the host school, and the work done by the Rules Committee made this a very successful event. The art judges were from the Stanhope Arts Supply of Texarkana. Mr. Cecil Bittle, Mr. Calvin Caldwell, and Mr. Wm D. Sullivan were the judges for the science exhibits. Mr. and Mrs. Robert May of Blevins made the robbins for the first, second, and third place winners. Maxine Evans of Guernsey made the signs for each division. All of these persons are to be Continued on Page Two

Wall Street Girds Self for Battle

By SAM DAWSON

NEW YORK (AP)—The New York Stock Exchange is busily tidying up its rules and practices in preparation for what some are billing as a showdown fight with the Securities and Exchange Commission.

But the exchange seems to have its eye on public opinion as much as on the threatened crackdown by the SEC. And that may be very much on the minds of exchange president Keith Funston and other exchange officials as they talk today to President Johnson.

Wall Street is well aware that there still is a great deal of popular suspicion as to what really goes on there. And SEC charges of unfair privileges enjoyed by floor traders — members who buy or sell for themselves rather than as brokers for the public—are likely to get more public credence than are denials by exchange officials.

A battle for a better public image may well accompany any fight with the SEC over tougher regulations. Exchange officials are aware that changing the ideas most Americans have of some stock market proceedings will be hard.

But to that end the exchange Continued on Page Two

Parents of Negro Pupils Are Warned

LITTLE ROCK (AP)—Negro leaders proceeded today with plans to picket a Little Rock School Board meeting and Atty. Gen. Bruce Bennett warned Negro parents not to involve their children in a school boycott planned for April 6.

Bennett said parents who keep their children away from school would be violating compulsory attendance laws. He said other laws make it illegal to encourage a child under 12 to commit an offense or to entice a minor from his parents or guardian.

Two predominantly Negro organizations, the Student Non-Violent Coordinating Committee and the Council on Community Affairs made the boycott and picket proposals Saturday.

Negroes were to picket the Little Rock School Board meeting at 4 p.m. today.

The anti-segregation groups contend integration has not progressed beyond the token stage in Little Rock schools and that Negroes in predominantly white schools are not being allowed to participate freely in school activities.

There are 106 Negroes in predominantly white schools.

MacArthur Apparently Recovering

By JOHN BARBOUR

WASHINGTON (AP)—Promising "to do the very best I can," Gen. Douglas MacArthur—hero of three wars—fought his way back today from the shock of two major operations in 17 days.

His doctors—warning that the outlook is still guarded—said the progress of their 84-year-old patient is "better than we had any right to hope for." Early today, they reported his condition as unchanged.

"There is good reason to hope progress will continue favorably," they had reported earlier.

However, U.S. Army Surgeon General Leonard D. Heaton said he could not say when the general would pass his crisis. The plans were to keep him in the emergency-equipped recovery room of the Walter Reed Army Medical Center, probably for a few days.

When his condition warrants, the general will be returned to his suite of rooms in the Ward Continued on Page Two

2-Register Proposal Is Introduced

LITTLE ROCK (AP)—The Arkansas House received a bill to set up the so-called dual registration system today as it met to debate and vote on voter registration proposals.

The new bill was introduced by Crittenden County Rep. Cecil Nance, who said he probably cannot even get it to a vote unless the special session gets bogged down on other registration bills.

Nance's proposal is the first to set up a dual system under which the poll tax would be used to qualify all voters for state elections and those who do not wish to pay the poll tax will be permitted to register for voting on federal offices only.

This is the system that is being set up in the other four states which, like Arkansas, Continued on Page Two

Faubus Gives Nod to ALC Measure

By JOHN R. STARR

LITTLE ROCK (AP)—The Arkansas Legislature turned today to debate and voting on voter registration legislation, a topic which has occupied the minds of most legislators for two months.

Hopes for an off-floor settlement of the major controversy on registration—designation of a registrar—faded Tuesday as first Gov. Orval E. Faubus and then the House Rules Committee sidestepped an opportunity to give the General Assembly a guideline.

In this position Faubus and the committee followed the Legislative Council which studied registration for two weeks and then declined to choose among assessors, sheriff-collectors and clerks.

The clerks seemed to be out of the picture Tuesday but the vote, at least in the House, appeared evenly divided between assessors and sheriff-collectors.

Sheriff Robert Moore of Desha County, quarterback for the Arkansas Sheriffs Association, predicted victory for the sheriff-collectors who want to keep the job they now do under the poll tax registration system, which is being replaced.

The Arkansas Assessors Association has said its members do not want the job. Legislators who favor assessors do so because the voter registration period coincides with the time set for assessing personal property and it would be convenient for the taxpayer to assess and register in the same office.

Faubus said in his opening speech that which official gets the job is of no importance because each is capable of doing a good job.

Faubus listed four criteria for a good registration bill — convenience for the voter, ease of records keeping, minimum of expense and protection against fraud.

He said these were most closely met by the Legislative Council's bill setting up an annual registration system.

The annual system seemed to be a shoo-in. Benton County Rep. Hardy Croxton, a proponent of permanent registration, admitted his bill has little chance of passage.

But Croxton said he wants to debate the issue fully, although he will not attempt to tie up the session in a filibuster.

House Speaker Marion Crank assured full debate by holding that each bill will be brought to a vote, regardless of committee recommendation, and he asked House members not to move or vote for limiting debate.

In the regular session Crank refused to call up bills which had not received a "do pass" recommendation from committee. If he had adhered to this policy, only the Legislative Continued on Page Two

Actor's Life Uncertain, But at Least It Is Never Boring, Hal Boyle Hears

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP)—To many people made snug by the certainty of a regular paycheck, the life of an actor seems to hold more desperation and boredom than it does glamor.

If you don't work, you nearly starve; if you do work, often you have to do the same thing over and over — like a fellow turning out grommets in a factory.

But Jackie Gleason once summed up the lure of show business when he proclaimed that if he weren't an actor he'd like to shine an actor's shoes.

"That's the way I feel about it," remarked Robert Morse. "It's a great thrill. The thrills are worth all the uncertainty, the wondering what will come up next."

Morse, who looks as young and bouncy as an eager-eyed college freshman, hardly has to worry now where to find a garret to sleep in.

He has just completed a romantic film comedy in which he costars with singer Robert Goulet. Two more films he has been signed for have turned him into a commuter between here and Hollywood.

Before resuming the film career he started in 1956, Morse who also has appeared on a number of television productions, made his mark by scoring in four hit Broadway shows in a row, an unusual record for any performer.

"The main thing an actor needs is a lot of patience and luck—and the desire and ability to grow with his luck," he says.

"If you don't grow, if you stay the same, you're in trouble."

Before luck began breaking his way, Morse went through ordeals that would have broken the spirit of a less durable optimist. But the sandy-haired, blue-eyed young actor still retains the curiosity and enthusiasm of a chipmunk on a sunny day.

After being graduated from high school in Newton, Mass., he migrated to Manhattan where he began his career by handling a spotlight in a children's theater for $12 a week.

There followed a number of hand-to-mouth jobs while he lived in a sixth-floor walkup cubicle which cost him $7 a week.

He parked cars for a restaurant, sold cookies, and for a time he knocked on any door selling household brushes.

After a four-year hitch in the Navy, he saved $300 which lured him until he began to find regular radio and television work.

"I've been very fortunate. I'm not afraid of financial insecurity any longer — just the ordinary insecurity of living," he said.

Egg-Cooking Finalist

JENNIFER SMITH

Jennifer Smith, 17-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Archie Smith, Hope Route 4, had her three-year Future Homemakers dreams come true by becoming one of the 10 finalists in the Arkansas Egg Cooking Contest to be held Thursday, March 26, at 10 a. m. in Little Rock. Miss Smith is a senior and a member. She was judged first on an egg recipe, then was chosen to represent the Southwest Arkansas District.

Top Liston Finance Men Face Probe

By W.B. RAGSDALE JR

WASHINGTON (AP) — Jack Nilon, Sonny Liston's financial adviser, said today he didn't ask any questions when the former heavyweight champion told him he wanted to sign away more than half his stock in the firm organized to promote Liston's fights.

The Inter-Continental Promotions Inc. stock that Liston gave up brought $100,000 in profits from the fight in which Liston lost the title to Cassius Clay.

Liston signed 275 of his 500 shares in Inter-Continental — half interest in the firm — over to Sam Margolis, who has been identified as a Philadelphia vending machine operator and an old friend of Liston.

When he asked Liston about the transfer, Nilon said, "Sonny said yes that was the way he wanted it."

"I never asked him why he signed it over," Nilon told the Senate Antitrust and Monopoly subcommittee.

Testimony Tuesday brought out that Margolis brought Liston to Nilon and his brothers, Bob and Jim, and helped set up Inter-Continental.

Nilon opened the second day of hearings as the subcommittee continues to examine circumstances surrounding the Fe b.25 fight in which Liston lost by a controversial technical knockout.

Sensors planned to question Nilon about his contract with Liston which gave him the manager's 50 per cent of the purse while Liston already had another manager.

Bob Nilon also was on all for questioning.

The subcommittee headed by Sen. Philip Hart, D-Mich., seeks to determine whether federal regulation is needed for professional boxing.

Another phase of the hearing is aimed at learning whether Liston's underworld ties, revealed in previous sessions have been severed.

Garland D. Cherry, a Chester, Pa., attorney, told the subcommittee Tuesday how Inter-Continental was organized to promote Liston's championship fights and give Liston a share of the promotional profits.

Cherry, secretary of the firm controlled by Bob Nilon and his other brother, Jim, said Liston was given 50 per cent of the firm's stock. He insisted that no other fighter ever before had been given a share of these profits.

Cherry said that Jack Nilon became Liston's business adviser and the fighter relied heavily on Nilon's advice. Cherry said it was his impression that Liston had almost no understanding of business matters.

Cherry said two weeks ago he was surprised to learn during talks with the Internal Revenue Service about profits from the fight that Jack Nilon was receiving 50 per cent of Liston's purse as a fighter.

He said Liston already was paying 10 per cent to his manager of record, George Katz.

Cherry said last December Liston signed away 275 of his 500 shares of stock in Inter-Continental, apparently without getting anything in return, to Sam Margolis.

He identified Margolis as a Philadelphia vending machine operator who had "helped Liston when he was down" and the man who brought Liston to the Nilon's to organize Inter-Continental.

Later, Margolis signed over 50 of his shares to Salvatore Arena, a Philadelphia Attorney who had figured in the formation of Inter-Continental, Cherry said.

Faubus Gives

Council bills could have come to a vote today.

The House Rules Committee considered the House's 10 registration bills at a night meeting and wrote "do pass" on three, all copies of the council bill and each naming a different official as registrar.

It put a "do not pass" recommendation on Croxton's permanent registration bill, Pulaski County Rep. Doug Brandon's bill to set up a quadriennial system and the five others.

This was, in effect, what the Legislative Council did after four days of public hearings on voter registration back in February.

A difference of opinion between the House and Senate developed Tuesday on the matter of party affiliation.

The Senate, on a motion by Sen. Robert Harvey of Swifton, amended from its versions of the council bills a provision giving the registrant the option of stating his party affiliation.

The House Rules Committee rejected Chicot County Rep. Ben Bynum's proposed amendments to accomplish the same purpose.

Perhaps the committee took this position because one of its most powerful members, Perry County Rep. Paul Van Dalsem, was the man who placed the provision into the bills during the council meeting.

Faubus said the party designation section was not important but he endorsed it as harmless because it is optional.

Van Dalsem actually would like a mandatory party loyalty requirement but he, at Faubus' urging, settled for the milder provision.

He would not say Tuesday night how vigorously he may fight to keep the optional provision in the bill. He said earlier that he wouldn't tie up the session over the matter.

But he promised a blistering speech about "Democrats, Republicans and stunks who are ashamed of their party" when the bill comes before the House.

No controversy was expected over 17 other items placed in the special session call by Faubus. Most of these are book-keeping budget measures designed to enable the state to get more federal funds for various programs.

The is a "new" appropriation ry said.

Cherry said he checked with Jack Nilon to see if the transfer to Margolis was legitimate and went ahead when Nilon okayed it.

He said he didn't call Liston because the fighter didn't understand financial matters and to call him would have been a waste of time.

At the time Cherry said he knew of no consideration Liston received for handing over the stock, although he heard later it went to Margolis for bringing Liston to the Nilon's and setting up a deal to give Liston part of the promotional profits.

He estimated that the stock Liston signed over brought in $100,000 in profits from the Liston-Clay fight and would bring in even more from Clay's next fight.

Under a secret agreement, signed at the same time as the Liston - Clay fight contract, Cherry said Inter - Continental has the right to select Clay's first opponent as champion and to promote the fight, with Clay accepting 30 per cent instead of the customary 40 per cent for a champion.

Clay received $50,000 for this promotion right, Cherry said, but admitted that Inter-Continental wouldn't have permitted Liston to sign for the fight if Clay hadn't agreed to it.

He said Liston was not a party to the agreement and was unaware of it, even though he had signed it.

NEW YORK (AP)—All four contenders invited to participate in an elimination tournament to determine a challenger for heavyweight champion Cassius Clay are enthusiastic over the project, a spokesman for the New York State Athletic Commission said today.

"All four — Doug Jones, Eddie Machen, Cleveland Williams and Floyd Patterson—told us by telephone or wire that they were all for the tournament," the spokesman said.

"Jones, Williams and possibly Patterson will appear at the commission meeting Thursday," he added. "Machen is in California and said it was doubtful he would attend."

of $50,000 for a hospital at Cummins Prison Farm.

Also to be considered is a bill to the penalty for interfering with an election by riotous behavior or a sit-in type demonstration at a polling place.

The bill would make such an offense a felony punishable by a prison term of one to five years and—or a fine of up to $5,000. It now is a misdemeanor with a maximum penalty of a $1,000 fine and—or one year in jail.

Another non-budget bill is designed to legalize marriages of persons who failed to comply with a 1941 law which stipulates that marriages are void if the groom was under 18 or the bride under 16.

Faubus called in his opening address for harmony. He said there was room for an honest difference of opinion but that personal grievances had no place in the democratic process.

Croxton took this remark as a personal insult and said he was tired of Faubus equating "opposition to treason." Faubus declined comment on Croxton's retort.

The opening session had two sideliights. As Faubus entered the chamber for his address a woman in the balcony began singing, "Stand Up For Jesus" and she continued singing until a guard restrained her at the request of Lt. Gov. Nathan Gordon.

Then William Hansen of Pine Bluff and Clifford Vaughns of Boston field secretaries of the Student Non-Violent Committee turned up in the gallery to hear Faubus' talk. Hansen who is white was accompanied by his Negro wife.

Hansen chuckled when Faubus urged passage of his anti-demonstration bill. Lawmakers greeted the proposal with the most prolonged of two bursts of applause during the speech. Faubus' assertion that Arkansas has clean elections brought the other burst.

Legislators were generally agreed Tuesday that the special session can be completed by Friday, possibly as early as Thursday.

Guerin Glad to Be With the Hawks

By MIKE RECHT

Associated Press Sports Writer
ST. LOUIS (AP) — Once disgruntled Richie Guerin has been like a kid with a new toy since he was traded to the St. Louis Hawks of the National Basketball Association.

But before he left the New York Knicks, he was ready to quit.

"Now it's great to be with a winner," he says. "And it will be good to be in the playoffs again."

The Hawks, San Francisco and Los Angeles are in the Western Division playoffs, while the Knicks finished in the Eastern Division cellar, as usual.

"I averaged more than 40 minutes and 20 points a game in seven years with New York," said the 31-year-old backcourt ace, "but the club only made the playoffs once during that time."

Guerin, a graduate of Iona College, holds New York's single game record of 57 points and single season mark of 2,303.

"I still enjoyed playing basketball with the Knicks," he said, "but losing takes a lot out of you. Before I was traded I was going to quit after this season."

With the Hawks, the 6-foot-4 native of New York is average only 13 points and 30 minutes of play a game, but it's worth it.

"The personal glory was fine with the Knicks," he said, "but everyone wants to be with a winner."

Causey Has Regained Batting Eye

By MIKE RATHET

Associated Press Sports Writer

BRADENTON, Fla. (AP) — "I'll take the same kind of year I had last year, but I'd like it spread around a little more evenly," said Wayne Causey, the Kansas City shortstop and former bonus baby who doesn't have to worry about his job for the first time in his 10-year career.

"I'd like to hit around .280 again," said Causey today, "but I could do without the pressure. I had last season. I began to think I'd never get straightened out and only wound up hitting .215 that month. That killed me."

Causey's slump—he had been well above .300 and was causing somewhat of a sensation around the American League—came as the surprising A's dropped out of the first division during the month and settled into eighth place, where they eventually finished.

Causey, however, regained his form and finished the season with a .280 average, showing some power with eight homers and 44 runs batted in while establishing himself as one of the top shortstops in the league. But it took 10 years.

"When I broke in I was 18. I had seen only high school pitching, and Baltimore couldn't farm me out, so I never got a chance to play and never got a chance to learn much," said Causey. "When they finally sent me down in 1957, I began to learn things I should have been learning all along."

"You just can't learn to hit in batting practice," he continued, "but in the minors I was playing regularly. That's when you get to learn how to adjust to pitching, how to adjust your bat to spray the ball around or hit to the opposite field."

The A's acquired Causey from the Orioles in 1961, and he was handed the third base job. But Causey still had problems.

Hank Bauer told me the third base job was mine if I could hit," said Causey, "but I injured my shoulder Ed Charles beat me out and I couldn't get my job back. Then in 1962 Dick Howser broke his thumb and I got a chance at short. And Howser never got his job back."

WASHINGTON (AP)—In the news from Washington:

NO CHANGE: The House rejected by a 75-68 vote Tuesday a move by silver state congressmen to provide $1.25 million for the coining of new silver dollars.

In sending the annual Treasury - Post Office appropriation bill to the floor last week the House Appropriations Committee rejected the Treasury's request to resume minting cartwheels. The committee said the Denver and Philadelphia mints should concentrate on badly needed smaller coins.

The floor effort to provide funds for the first minting of silver dollars since 193 was made before the bill was passed by a 320-20 roll call vote and sent to the Senate.

SATISFIED: Sen. George A. Smathers, D-Fla., said Tuesday Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara has reassured him "with respect to our national defense capabilities."

Smathers had asked for an explanation of how a Cuban helicopter, hijacked by two defectors, managed to fly into Key West, Fla., last Friday apparently without detection.

McNamara called the Florida senator, sent him a letter and arranged a briefing Wednesday on the defense situation. Smathers said he's not confident "that this type of situation" will not recur.

SERVICE ACADEMIES: The Pentagon civil rights chief said Tuesday there are only 32 Negro cadets among the 7,000 men at the Army, Navy and Air Force academies because "lots of Negro youngsters just don't dream they have a chance."

But the official, Asst. Secretary of Defense Alfred B. Pitt, suggested that the planned expansion of the academies will present new opportunities for minority group youths.

Meanwhile, Pitt said, he has been trying to stimulate the interest of qualified Negroes, Puerto Ricans, Mexican-Americans and members of other minority groups—"people who traditionally have been left out of things."

The board further just proposed a plan to make it possible to halt trading in national emergencies much faster than the 27 minutes that elapsed between first news of the assassination of President John F. Cold air is nudging spring rains aside, promising possible snow flurries in Arkansas today and promising to push temperatures to near freezing tonight.

Rainshowers were predicted for most of the state through tonight, when the colder air was expected to hit. The U.S. Weather Bureau forecast lows ranging from 32 north to 40 south tonight.

Overnight low readings today were generally in the 50s and 60s. Maximum readings Tuesday were in the upper 60s and mid 70s.

The five-day outlook calls for colder weather to prevail through Friday. A warming trend is predicted Saturday, but Easter Sunday will be cool, the Weather Bureau said.

Rain totaling about one inch—possibly more in local showers—is forecast the end of the week.

The new rules proposed by exchange officials would stress floor trading activity that would stabilize a fluctuating market and would keep such traders from dominating the market for a particular stock.

The exchange's board of governors also has just voted to raise standards for original listing of common stocks for trading and to tighten standards for continued listing.

The board further just proposed a plan to make it possible to halt trading in national emergencies much faster than the 27 minutes that elapsed between first news of the assassination of President John F. Early Monday morning doctors noted signs of severe internal bleeding in the digestive tract. Other than the bleeding, his condition was good, Heaton said.

They diagnosed the site of the bleeding as the esophagus, the tube which conveys food to the stomach.

The doctors operated to remove the spleen and used the vein that carries blood from the spleen as a shunt to the kidneys. This apparently improved blood flow and lowered blood pressure in the bleeding veins.

Then they inserted a tube to stem the bleeding area and stop the flow of blood. This tube was removed at noon Tuesday and six hours later doctors said there had been no further bleeding.

76ers and Royals Tie at 1-All

Home is still sweet in the National Basketball Association. If you don't believe it, ask the Philadelphia 76ers, or the Cincinnati Royals.

Last Sunday, the 76ers and Royals opened the Eastern semifinal NBA playoffs — a best-of-five-game set — in Cincinnati and the Royals won by 25 points.

Tuesday night, the scene shifted to Philadelphia and with the home court advantage, the 76ers rapped the favored Royals 122-114.

The teams return to Cincinnati night for the third game with the fourth scheduled for Philadelphia Saturday night and the fifth, if necessary, back in Cincinnati.

76ers Coach Dolph Schayes shouted, "great defense in the second half did it." He paid tribute to Hal Greer, the Philadelphia sharpshooter whose 15 points in the final quarter turned the tide.

"They'd been counting this club out all year," said Schayes. "You can't do that. They have too much hustle."

Greer, who scored nine straight points to sap the 100-100 deadlock and send Philadelphia on to victory, scored 29 to lead the 76ers.

McMahon felt the game was won and lost by the referees' whistle. He was hot under the collar because his team shot better than 50 per cent from the field and lost.

Bailey - Harrison Exchange Views

Miss Janice Elisabeth Bailey became the bride of Johnny Henry Harrison in a candle light ceremony at 7 o'clock Friday evening, March 20 in the Chapel of the First Methodist Church. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Dexter Bailey and the granddaughter of Mr. and Mrs. William E. Bailey. Mrs. Leon Bundy and the late Leon Bundy all of Hope.

The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Johnnie G. Harrison of Prescott and the grandson of the late Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Harrison and Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Cottingham all of Prescott.

The double-ring ceremony was performed by the Rev. Gladwin Connel, before an arch of long white burning tapers in two seven branch candelabras entwined with huckleberry. Miss Mary Ann Bader, organist, played a program of pre-nuptial music.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a white suit of nubby silk and cotton featuring a straight fitted skirt and short box jacket. Her white silk halo hat was accented with a short circular veil. A strand of pearls, gift of the groom, was the bride's only jewelry. She carried a white Bible topped with a white orchid showered with satin streamers tied in love knots. She wore the traditional something old, new, borrowed, and blue, and a penny in her shoe.

The maid of honor and only attendant was Miss Sue Griffin, who wore a street length dress of variegated blue printed silk and matching accessories. She carried a cascade bouquet of white carnations.

Blake Harrison of Prescott served his cousin as best man. For her daughters wedding Mrs. Bailey wore a blue silk suit with complimenting accessories. Mrs. Harrison, mother of the groom, wore a beige linen suit with matching accessories. Each had a corsage of white gardenias.

Following the ceremony a reception was held in the home of the bride. The table was overlaid with white net over taffeta and a floor length ruffle with white satin bows at the corners. White snapdragons flanked by burning tapers in a silver candelabra made the centerpiece.

Mrs. Newt Bundy of Stephens, aunt of the bride, served the punch. The tiered wedding cake topped with a miniature bride and groom was served by Mrs. Mary Harrison of Prescott, aunt of the groom.

Following a short wedding trip the couple will be at home in Prescott.

WHY TEENS SEEK, ETC.

By DR. JOYCE BROTHERS

Dear Dr. Brothers: I'm very worried about the friends my teen boy and girl are making. They seem to be going from bad to worse in their choice. Last year their friends were objectionable enough, but now they seem to pick the least desirable from our neighborhood, on purpose. Of course, I'm worried my daughter will get into fast company, but my son isn't any less concerned. How do you explain an adolescent's choice of friends, and what should parents do to guide them? —Mrs. B. M.

Dear Mrs. B. M.: There are quite a few factors at work when an adolescent chooses friends. They aren't at all apparent on the surface, but if you understand them, they'll explain a lot about your youngster.

Teen age is especially interesting to psychologists. It's a stage of rapid maturation, and the transition ground between child and the grown-up. It is neither one nor the other but has a confusing part of each.

The youngster begins to form decided opinions of his own and, in this respect, grows away from his parents. This doesn't mean he's alienated from them. He's attempting to strike out for himself, as a swimmer freshments were served by the hostess.

The April meeting will be at the Club House with Mrs. J. E. Ward as hostess.

Coming and Going

Saturday guests of Mr. and Mrs. Graydon Anthony were: Mr. and Mrs. Oliver Bass, Mr. and Mrs. George Bass, Amy and Dana, El Dorado; the Rev. and Mrs. Dick Bass, Fordyce; Mrs. Glen L. Bass and Russell Bass, Bearden.

Miss Mary Lou Park, a student at TCU, is visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. R. L. Park. Bonnie Howning of Hutto, Tex., also a student at TCU, was their weekend guest.

Dr. Roy I. Bagley is conducting Protestant Holy Week Services at Fort Chaffee near Fort Smith Monday-Thursday this week.

Mr. and Mrs. F. B. Ward and family, Jonesboro, La., spent the weekend with Mr. and Mrs. Guy Card.

Mrs. Orville Oglesby has gone to Dallas to become a house mother at the Juliette Fowler Home for Children, an orphan's home sponsored by the Disciples of Christ (Christian Church).

John Wimberly, Kingsport, Tenn., was the weekend guest of his mother, Mrs. J. W. Wimberly.

Mrs. Ronnie Nations, Jay and Mary, Kingsport, Tenn., are visiting Mr. and Mrs. Harry Shiver and will be joined here next week by Mr. Nations.

Going to hear the Dallas Symphony in Texarkana Sunday were Mr. and Mrs. Paul Rawson, Mrs. Lynn Harris and Marilyn.

Dr. George Balentine is holding revival services this week at Bradley. In his absence Sunday the pulpit was filled by the Rev. W. R. Woodell of Prescott.

Mr. and Mrs. Luther Garner of Midland, Texas are visiting this week with his mother and sister, Mrs. Luther Garner, Sr. and Mrs. Ople Hervey.

would from the shore.

I receive many letters from mothers who express exactly the worry you do. Their teen friends seem to be going from bad to worse. If they continue, their parents react with some logic they'll be full-pledged gangland recruits by the time they're 21. What is there to change them?

At this point, I can offer some encouragement. We start with a teen's reactions. He's at the stage now where he's striving to be an individual, and to form his own ideas independent of his parents. In the process, his seeking of individuality causes him to rebel against his parents.

He's developing his own, for a change. One reaction the growing teen goes through is that he's been down-trodden and over-ruled for all his life. He feels he's been the underdog.

This reaction develops interesting effects. He develops a natural affinity for others he thinks are also down-trodden. For instance, he takes up with boys who've had brushes with the police. Malcontents who are always railing against parents, and an odd assortment of beatniks and current faddists.

The teen reasons this way: They're like him. They've been the persecuted underdog. Just like he's been treated at home. They're kindred spirits, so he takes up with them.

Soon the family makes this comment: "My teen's friends are going from bad to worse." Actually, it's simple identification with those he thinks have the short end of things.

How to you deal with this stage? Show a real interest in what he's doing, and convince him you're not just prying. And by all means, keep this in mind: If you criticize your adolescent's friends, undesirable as they may be, you'll drive him closer to them. The criticized friend then becomes a fellow-rebel, a kindred spirit, someone else not understood.

Keep the channels open. This rebellious stage, and its rebellious friendships will soon pass, as the adolescent begins to form more real senses of value.

A Note On Made-Over Husbands

May Be Good Year for Nicholson

By MURRAY CHASS
Associated Press Sports Writer

Six years ago major league scouts, check books wide open, flocked to Dave Nicholson for his signature. Last season American League pitchers, mouths watering, scurried to the mound for his next knockout.

His signature was expensive and only one scout got it, but his strikeouts came cheaply and just about every pitcher who faced him got them. For he fanned a record 175 times, or once every 2.6 times at bat.

The 1964 season may not be any different for the Chicago White Sox 24-year-old knockout artist, but at least he's starting off the spring in an uncharacteristic manner.

His eighth-inning two-run triple that powered the White Sox to a 4-1 exhibition victory over the Los Angeles Dodgers Tuesday was his fifth hit in the last four games.

The hits include two home runs and two triples and brought his average to .258 for the spring, which is considerably higher than his .210 lifetime

Many a girl who's planning to get married in the next six months may also be planning to change her suitor's habits, so he'll be the perfect husband.

And lots of younger married women are also still working on the project. Do all these plans work out?

Absolutely not. Two recent surveys show males simply aren't convertible. One survey showed only 1 husband in 3,000 was found to have been significantly changed in his habits by marriage.

Then another survey was made of 60,000 men and wives, and the same question asked: Was the wife able to change the husband much? No, was the overwhelming answer.

The moral is obvious. Dorothy Dix is a registered trademark. A Bell-McClure Syndicate Feature mark.

Even more ominous for opposition hurlers, though, is his declining knockout rate. In 31 appearances at the plate he has fanned five times, a rate of one every 6.2 times at bat.

Despite his ability to miss the ball more than he hits it, Nicholson is likely to remain in Chicago's outfield a long time. The White Sox recently placed a $750,000 price tag on him, or $4,285.71 a knockout.

"Nicholson has the greatest potential of anyone playing today," said Manager Al Lopez. "He could bust out anytime."

The Frank Howard story, meanwhile, is nearing an end, at least for this spring. The Dodgers said Tuesday the huge outfielder, who had talked of retiring, will report to their Vero Beach, Fla., camp this Friday.

"He hasn't agreed to terms," General Manager Buzzie Bavasi said, "but we are offering him a raise and I don't think we will have any problem."

In exhibition action, the New York Mets nipped the New York Yankees 1-0 on Frank Thomas' eighth-inning single. Bob Gibson helped pitch St. Louis to a 12-3 victory over Kansas City.

San Francisco edged Cleveland 9-8 with the aid of Orlando Cepeda's three-run homer in the first. Rookie Rich Allen clubbed two home runs in Philadelphia's 7-1 triumph against Cincinnati.

Pittsburgh made four errors, which helped Milwaukee to a 3-1 victory. Washington won its third straight game 8-3 over Detroit. Camilo Pascual permitted just one hit in five innings as Minnesota downed Houston 6-0. Rain canceled the game between Boston and the Los Angeles Angels.

Title Threat Has Disappeared

Clay's Title Secure, at Least Now

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP)—Ed Lassman, president of the World Boxing Association, says the association has decided to let Cassius Clay keep his heavyweight championship "at least for now."

Lassman, who demanded earlier that Clay be stripped of the title he won from Sonny Liston, said today: "I don't expect any action before August."

A Senate antitrust and monopoly subcommittee opens three days of hearings in Washington today on circumstances surrounding Clay's controversial technical knockout Feb. 25 of Liston.

"We have decided not to make a decision on Clay until after we have heard from the Senate hearings," Lassman said. "And not until after we have given Clay a hearing. I don't expect any action before August."

of his title.

"The matter of withdrawal developed numerous strong representations by members of the WBA who felt that circumstances were reflecting unfavorably against boxing and stirring up much unrest in the country," Lassman said.

THE WEEPING WIDOW MINE

By Nelson C. Nye

Medders, flinging down his hat, began to guffaw like a loony. "Is that what he told 'em? That I found the Weepin' Widder?"

Miss Winters' eyes seemed a little uneasy. "You did find it didn't you?"

"All I've got is a cache of stacked ore some bunch of high-graders went an' buried in a cave!"

Miss Winters cringed as though she's been struck; but whether this was caused by his language or its import was not apparent. With shock still in her stare she said, rising determinedly above it: "T. K. had your number, all right. He said you would try to ruin everything. But they've allowed for your spleen—this dog in the manger attitude. Once the operation is down on the books it will be money in the bank no matter how loud you shout."

"Got it all figured, hey?"

She considered him belligerently. "T. K. believes in the fact accomplished. You're not the first desert rat he's been involved with; he knows how obstinate and unreasonable prospectors can be, always stirring up trouble, haggling over every move."

She seemed to catch herself, drew a long shaky breath. "I can't think what has come over me." She caught a lip between white teeth, eyes nearly hidden behind the cover of dark lashes. "Practically trading with the enemy."

Medders got the message. "Ever think of swappin' sides?"

"But wouldn't that be disloyal?" Her eyes seemed suddenly big as buckets. "A girl does have to look out for herself, but..."

"Shucks," Charlie said, "there ain't no buts about it. You ought t' know how these big moguls operate. It's every wolf for himself." He let her digest that, then said quick and easy: "Be worth a little something fer me to know what's in them minutes. After all, I found the Company. I got a right t' know, ain't I?"

"Well, but..."

She was plainly wavering. "Miss Winters—" he broke off. A timid, half scared bit of smile was on her lips. "Wouldn't you rather call me 'Ginnie'?"

Medders noticeably gulped.

8 Straight Flags for Celtics

BY BOB HOOBING

Associated Press Sports Writer

BOSTON (AP)—The balding man wreathed in cigar smoke looked like a shrub among giant redwood trees.

He put down the paper cup of champagne abruptly and announced: "Practice tomorrow morning, 10 sharp."

Coach Red Auerbach had let his Boston Celtics pause only a moment to celebrate the clinching of their eighth straight Eastern Division crown in the National Basketball Association earlier this month.

"One thing I've learned with the Celtics is to never show compassion with a winner," Red says. "I run them ragged. I never let them get over - confident."

"He's the meanest, most cantankerous, blankety-blank I've ever played for," says one player. "But I wouldn't play for anyone else. He's a dictator, yet none of us ever suffered wrongly at his hands."

In 13 previous years as Celtics' boss, Auerbach has guided six NBA champions and a runner-up. The athletes he drives are fond of victory as the man who still delights in juring self-styled handball and tennis experts into matches and trouncing them.

Auerbach contends all pros are ex-college stars used to being pampered so "you have to take a strong position so that they know you're the boss. Then you have to keep gently reminding them."

The Auerbach rule book calls for super conditioning, no remarks about opponents which may backfire as ammunition later, no questioning of an order, no cliques.

While Auerbach needles his team in victory, he defends it staunchly in defeat, tolerates no attempt to single out a "goat." When red-hot Cincinnati pulled to within one-half game of the Celtics last month, Auerbach snapped at critics:

"Most people forge to give the opposition credit. We're not panicking."

Memphis Beats State Trackmen

JONESBORO, Ark. (AP) — Stan Nelson won three events for Arkansas State, but the Indians lost 92-53 to Memphis State in a dual track meet here Tuesday.

Nelson won the 880-yard run, the mile run and the two-mile run to score 15 points.

Arkansas State won three other events, while Memphis State placed first in 11.

Mets' New Park Will Be Ready

By JIM BECKER
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — There's snow in the dugout and center field is a swamp, but the new home of the New York Mets is going to be ready for the baseball season.

Most of the 55,000 seats are already bolted in place in the five tiers of stands. The infield grass is growing. Bulldozers are churning in the outfield, filling in the mud puddles.

"We'll be ready. The parking lots, the escalators, the restaurants, the drinking fountains, the playing field—all ready by April 17," said Rick Praeger, a partner in the engineering and architectural firm that designed Shea Stadium.

And so in a little more than three weeks, baseball fans, those famous New York Mets — Choo Choo Coleman, Rod Kanehl, Larry Bearnarth, Amado Samuel, and all—will charge out to play in their new playground.

The result will be a combination of the worst baseball team in the National League — 10th twice and favored to be 10th again—and what appears to be the finest baseball stadium ever built.

There isn't a post in the place. Every seat is pointed at second base, or the 50-yard-line for football. The Jets of the American Football League will also play here.

The box seats all swing on rails to new positions for football. The operation takes about 10 to 15 minutes.

The worst seat in the house is better than most seats in other stadiums, and more colorful. The seats are painted in shades of green, blue, orange and yellow.

There are no bleachers. And for the next two years, fans who can't stand to watch the Mets any more can always take one of the 21 escalators out and go watch the World's Fair across the street.
